F.A.Q. Daniel Webster College Reunion/Celebration

All about a special event set for Thursday, March 19, 2026 at Nashua Community College

• What's this Reunion/Celebration? It's on Thursday, March 19, 2026 from 5 to 9 p.m. at Nashua Community College, 505 Amherst St., Nashua, N.H. The event will bring together hundreds of Daniel Webster alumni staff, faculty and friends from throughout the college's history; co-chairs are former DWC presidents Lou D'Allesando and Hannah McCarthy. Attendees will enjoy a gourmet dinner, live music from the "DW Trio," a program featuring noteworthy speakers, a class group photo, and the world premiere of 'The Daniel Webster College Story,' a video promoting the forthcoming book about the school being published by the non-profit Aviation Museum of N.H., which is organizing the event. Tickets are $100 per person; $750 for tables of 10.

• Why is Daniel Webster College important? Located in Nashua, N.H., Daniel Webster College operated for 50+ years, from 1965 to 2017. The school produced thousands of graduates who are now in the workforce. Although the school is closed, DWC grads continue to make contributions every day in aviation, computer science, business management, and many other fields. All in all, they make up a major part of the region's skilled workforce.

• Where are Daniel Webster College graduates today? Simply put, everywhere. Literally thousands work at prominent companies such BAE Systems, Fidelity Investments, and all major airlines. A good portion of the top management at Manchester-Boston Regional Airport are Daniel Webster graduates. Every day, the education that graduates received at Daniel Webster College contributes to the region's economic vibrancy and prosperity.

• Why hold a reunion? When a school ceases to exist, not everything about it suddenly vanishes. No—the people of Daniel Webster College may lack a campus to come back to, but they represent a shared experience that's worth celebrating. Even if there's no longer a campus, they deserve an opportunity to return, renew valuable friendships, and celebrate what was for many a life-changing experience.

• Why publish a book? More than a half-century of higher education is a story worth telling, and also worth preserving. The Aviation Museum of N.H. has custody of a collection of artifacts and memorabilia from Daniel Webster College, but that's not enough. To ensure the story of this life-changing institution does not vanish, and that its accomplishments are recognized, the time is now to gather the records, speak to those involved, and get the story told in book form.

• Why the non-profit Aviation Museum of N.H.? Our mission is to preserve local aviation history and inspire young people to pursue careers in the field. Daniel Webster College involves both areas: the school's 50 years of operation equal an enormous quantity of local history, and its emphasis on aviation education corresponds directly to our own mission of giving young people pathways to careers in the field.

• Who's writing the book? The book will be authored by David Brooks, longtime local journalist for the Nashua Telegraph and the Concord Monitor. David, who volunteers with the Aviation Museum, covered Daniel Webster College while it was in operation. We expect the book to be completed and published in 2027. The Aviation Museum has experience in publishing local history books; in 2024, we published 'Grenier Field: A Beacon on the Home Front' by Associate Director Leah Dearborn, a wide-ranging and highly praised history of Grenier Air Base in Manchester, N.H.

• How much are you trying to raise? Publishing the book is expected to cost between $30,000 and $35,000. We anticipate the Reunion/Celebration will raise a significant portion of that amount. Any additional funds will be used to support the Aviation Museum's youth education outreach programs, which include a student plane-building program active in three N.H. high schools and a popular aviation summer camp, as well as field trips and classroom visits—all of which carry forward the enduring spirit of Daniel Webster College!
